So Long, Old Friend

Commentary by Tim Linscott, Owner/Publisher
Fairbury Journal-News

Well, this is a piece I knew I'd have to write someday, but dreaded the thought that it was here when I sat at my desk today.

BJ Fictum has passed. One of the best journalists I ever met and one of the best people I had the privilege to know.

I get a somber tone thinking about his passing, but then that boisterous laugh creeps into my conscience and I smile. His chugging, 'huhh, huhh, huhh,' laugh made you laugh and then it was off to the races.

BJ had health issues for several years and I remember my days in Wilber telling him he needed to slow down his pace, watch his weight and keep his diabetes in check.

"I know, I know, I will," he'd tell me.

Once as I sat at my desk at 3:30 a.m. cranking out sports stories at my office in Wilber, the phone rang.

"Hey, did you get photos from the W-C basketball game tonight?" BJ rapidly rolled off before I could say hello.

"How did you know I was here?" I asked.

"We're newspaper people, tomorrow is deadline, of course you're at the office," he said. "And I drove by the office on my way home and saw you were there."

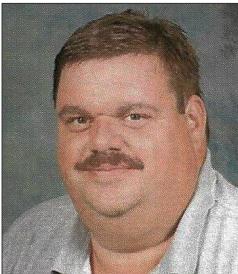

He loved unconditionally. All those he called friends, family and especially, the people and places he covered in the paper. He truly dedicated his life to people.

I had the honor of writing his Friends of Fairbury piece a few weeks ago. On the way to the meeting room we conducted the interview at Czech Village, I could see him coming up the sidewalk, stopping to talk to Joe, the maintenance guy, about something and then stopped in, apologizing for being nearly late and said he was working on a few things.

Always working on a few things, BJ was, and that pace drove me to keep up with him, but it also drove me to slow down. I saw his health issues, I saw the stress, I saw the burning the candle at both ends. I could feel the heat of my own candle burning at both ends and decided I needed a change.

Bruce, as I called him once in a while, loved people. He loved making people happy and making sure people were taken care of, albeit through educating them about weather, sending them photos from a game, providing information through a story or just talking with them or just being there to listen.

BJ Fictum

The first time I met him was at a Meridian football game in 1997. When he showed up people cheered. I thought he was some sort of celebrity or famous alumni. Nope, it was just BJ. He loved every school he covered and the kids, parents, everyone, appreciated what he did through the years.

I am grateful that I had the chance to do a long story about his life and spend some quality time with him. After the interview, he sat back and said, 'Wow, I haven't thought about some of that in years.'

BJ was a true original. Fantastic photographer, incredible piano player, first-rate journalist and had the truest of hearts of anyone I ever met. He was involved in just about everything and a void will be felt around the region, but also in the hearts of everyone who knew him.

He will be missed.

Combined fire and rescue squads from the Wilber area used a fire truck aerial ladder to hoist the U.S. flag above Sokol Hall in Wilber on Dec. 15 to honor BJ Fictum. BJ, a Nebraska high school sports reporter and photographer, died Dec. 8, 2018, at the age of 54.

Nebraska Press Association Foundation, Inc.

"We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give."
~ Winston Churchill

Dear Colleagues, Employees and Friends of Nebraska newspapers:

As 2018 comes to a close, I respectfully and sincerely ask you to consider supporting the work of the Nebraska Press Foundation through a year-end charitable gift.

Our mission consists of providing support - both financially and through staff resources - to working journalists, student journalists, adult literacy initiatives, summer high school journalism workshops, grants to high school journalism programs, annual scholarships to college and high school journalism students, and our newest program - summer internship scholarships to college journalism students.

Simply put, we could do much more with additional funding from friends like you - people who care about the future of community journalism, people who care about the important role newspapers serve in their local communities, and people who care about the generations of young people - future journalists - who will follow in our footsteps.

Thank you in advance for your consideration and generosity, and best wishes for a joyous holiday season and new year.
